

Dev (pronounced Dave) Cheekock operates two quality newsletters, Gold Sprout Profits and the ultra-low leveraged Sprout Futures site. In my opinion, he is the greatest “market feel” trader since Jim Sinclair’s father ruled the markets, in decades past. He has more emotional control than any trader I’ve ever met, including me.

The bottom line is that Dev Cheekock trades gold and all the major assets by market feel, like Michaelangelo sculpts marble. While Dev uses charts and liquidity flows analysis daily, he really operates like the few great masters of the ticker tape and pit noise, by feeling the liquidity flows, rather than analyzing them.

That’s the rarest of market gifts, and he, alone in the gold community... has it now.

Dev’s prime method of market operation is to keep a live one minute chart of gold by his side. He is not a day trader.

He feels the pulse of the market from that one minute chart, to sense price levels where the banksters are looking to build large long or short positions for major scores.

I think you’ll be stunned with the accuracy of his capital allocation. He definitely is a key player on our team to compete with the banksters to consistently build you... ounces of gold wealth.
